

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

University of Nebraska-Lincoln

Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor of Accountancy

University of Nebraska – Lincoln Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor. The School of Accountancy invites applications for two tenured or tenure-track appointments at the Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor rank beginning August 2017. The University of Nebraska-Lincoln is committed to establishing a research presence commensurate with that of our Big Ten Conference affiliates and the Committee on Institutional Cooperation, the academic affiliation of the conference. Candidates are required to hold a Ph.D. in accounting or related discipline from an AACSB accredited College of Business and will be expected to publish research in the top accounting and/or finance journals. Candidates for the Associate or Full position should have an established research record fitting of the rank for which they applied, while candidates for the Assistant position should have a robust research agenda underway. All areas of teaching and research interest will be considered. We are particularly interested in individuals who are strong organizational citizens and interested in being active members of a rich academic community. Salary, benefits, and research support are very competitive and consistent with other Big Ten Universities.

About the College of Business Administration

Under the leadership of Dean Donde Plowman, the research, teaching, and engagement missions of the College have been significantly refocused to align with the affiliation of the Big Ten. As the college continues to build on and further develop its research strength, twenty five new faculty have been hired in the past three years and a new 240,000 square foot state-of-the art building is currently under construction. Lincoln, and nearby Omaha, have thriving business communities that have supported academic research and helped to advance the College's research goals. The College prides itself in being an open and collaborative community.

Additional Information
