

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

University of Nebraska- Lincoln
Assistant Professor of Accountancy

The School of Accountancy invites applications for an Assistant Professor position beginning August 2019. The University of Nebraska-Lincoln is committed to establishing a research presence commensurate with that of our Big Ten Conference affiliates and the Committee on Institutional Cooperation, the academic affiliation of the conference. The successful candidate will be expected to publish research in the top accounting and finance journals. We are particularly interested in individuals who are strong organizational citizens and interested in being active members of a rich academic community. Salary, benefits, and research support are very competitive and consistent with other Big Ten Universities.

Qualifications

Candidates are required to hold a Ph.D. in accounting, or related discipline from an AACSB accredited College of Business at the time of appointment. Candidates must have a robust research agenda underway. The School of Accountancy will consider all areas of teaching and research interest but will give preference to faculty who teach Auditing or Taxation.

About the College of Business

The faculty, students, and staff who comprise the College of Business bring a high level of dedication to providing exceptional education and real-world experiences for our students. In recent years, the research, teaching, and engagement missions of the College have been significantly refocused to align with the affiliation of the Big Ten. We have enjoyed unprecedented growth in students, programs, faculty, and research. As the College continues to build on and further develop its research strength, we have hired more than fifty new faculty members over the last three years. Our new 240,000 square-foot state-of-the-art Howard L Hawks Hall (fully funded through the generous support of our alumni, business partners, and friends) provide faculty and students with the perfect setting to achieve their goals. Lincoln and nearby Omaha have thriving business communities that have supported academic research and helped to advance the College's research goals. The College prides itself on being an open and collaborative community.

Go to <http://employment.unl.edu>, requisition F_180090. Applicants must upload four documents: a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, contact information for at least three references, and one document containing samples of academic works and evidence of teaching experience and ability. Initial screening of applicants will begin September 30, 2018, and continue until the position is filled.

As an EO/AA employer, qualified applicants are considered for employment without regard to race, color, ethnicity, national origin, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, marital status, and/or political affiliation. See <http://www.unl.edu/equity/notice-nondiscrimination>.